Crankshaft dealer service guide

Proposal draft, October 2026. Crankshaft is the company. Listing Tuner is the listing and media service within Crankshaft. Dealer account owners approve final facts, media and routing rules. This draft is not a signed offer.

What we do

Crankshaft improves inventory presentation and inbound call handling. Listing Tuner writes from dealer-supplied facts, polishes and orders real vehicle photos, and cuts clips from supplied footage. The dealer supplies condition, options and online-disclosure instructions. We highlight positives without making obvious false statements or fabricating vehicle imagery. Jev may select candidate video moments; an editor checks the final clips. Our call verifier answers, qualifies intent, checks availability, enriches qualified leads and routes them to an available salesperson. The Crankshaft dealer portal keeps the sales roster and a record of every received call, attempted route and actual answered agent. It sends approved lead summaries to a connected CRM when supported or provides CSV output.

Plans proposed for pilot validation

	Launch	Growth	Scale
Monthly fee	$795	$1,295	$1,995
Active vehicles	30	60	100
New/rebuilt listings per month	20	40	70
Edited clips from supplied footage	10	25	50
AI verifier minutes included	750	1,500	2,500

There are no separate voice-minute, token or verifier-decision charges. The dashboard shows included AI minutes with alerts and a proposed plan upgrade as usage rises. If capacity is reached without an upgrade, new callers use the agreed human or callback route; calls are not silently dropped. International, premium-rate and outbound campaign traffic requires a separately agreed scope. A $495 ten-vehicle pilot is credited toward month one if a plan begins within 30 days. Connector setup that requires vendor fees or certification is separately scoped.

What the dealer provides

The dealer chooses its inventory and CRM products in the standardized Crankshaft Connections screen, grants available API/feed access or uses CSV, and provides rights to the media, verified stock/price/availability, listing and disclosure instructions, approved call script, staff roster, backup route and an approver. The dealer owns its accounts, numbers, inventory, prices and sales process. Crankshaft never changes an asking price independently.

Review and acceptance

We provide a versioned draft and side-by-side media review. Dealer statements govern condition and options; invented facts and direct conflicts are flagged. Dealer approval precedes authorized publication, followed by a live check. Calls are qualified under dealer-approved rules. A transfer succeeds when an agent answers or accepts it. Reports distinguish answered, qualified, transferred, missed transfer and follow-up needed.

Expected limitations

Marketplace and DMS access depends on vendors and dealer subscriptions; some updates need a manual portal step. Ranking, lead volume, appointments and sales are not guaranteed. The sample gallery uses third-party thumbnails for internal research, not dealer-authorized production. Voice, video and integration details require dealer-specific setup and pilot tests.
